ARTICLE GUIDELINES

ECON+ encourages the submission of articles that address economic policy concerns and assessments. The article should promote further discussion and should be accessible to a global, young readership of different fields and practices.

Previous publishing experience is not required for submission. Authors should however submit original content. If authors plan to submit their papers to other publishers, or wish to submit an adapted version of a previous paper or article (even if the host site is their own, such as a personal blog), please advise both us and the other publisher. We can thus source work correctly and avoid potential conflict.¹

FORMAT

1. Articles must be written in clear and concise UK English.
2. Length should be between 250 and 800 words (summary and endnotes not included).
3. The title, author's name, and a short summary of no more than 10 words should precede the article.
4. Where references are online or links may be useful, please place this as a hyperlink in the text using the key word or a few key words for the link.
5. All other citations should be in endnotes: number endnotes sequentially using Arabic numbers. References should conform to the APA style, which can be found here. www.apastyle.org/
6. We encourage the use of charts and graphs as visual aids for clarity of argument, as well as images to illustrate your text. However, it is the responsibility of the author to source and obtain permission for the use of any copyrighted material and provide proof of this.

SUBMISSION

1. Articles must be in MS Word format (or compatible). PDF files are not accepted. Please align text to the left.

¹ It is ultimately the author's responsibility to ensure that copyright laws are not infringed.

2. Your document should be named ART-Title_of_article-V0-Name
3. Send the article to articles@econ-plus.com as an email attachment. The email subject line should read “[ART] Article submission: (Name of author)”.
4. The following information should be included in the email:
 - Full name:
 - Occupation:
 - Country of origin:
 - Contact information:
 - Alternative email
 - Twitter:
 - Personal webpage:
 - Any other relevant information: (about the article or author)
 - Bio: (see info below)

BIOGRAPHY

If you have not previously done so, please submit a small biography of yourself (100 words maximum) in the body of the submission mail. Please also submit a profile photo in JPEG format.

EDITORIAL PROCESS

1. To check content and style, an editor will review Econ+ pieces. It is important for you to make sure your facts are as accurate as possible however, as they won't be able to fact-check everything.
2. Sometimes, if an editor feels that a text needs a bit more work, they will send you back a copy of your writing in 'track changes', or with 'comment' boxes. This is a dialogue process; if you feel that the editor is moving you in a direction you don't want to go in, please say so. 'Accept' the changes you like, and make any further edits for review also in track changes, otherwise the editor won't be able to see what has changed. If you've never worked in track changes, please let us know, and we can talk you through this process.
3. Editors might not always give you concrete recommendations; this would be putting words into your mouth. Often, they will ask a question, or make a comment, as a possible avenue for further thought, designed to prompt reflection. They are not being critical of your text; they are working with you to bring out the message in the best possible way.
